Yeah, yeah, yeah, another red/red Corvette with a manual trans and the Z-51 option Hey, like John Heinricy says in that famous Corvette book, "All Corvettes are red, the rest are mistakes!" So how does a guy who's only owned late model Corvettes end up in the local NCRS chapter? Blame Dave Pritchard and Mike Mills, both who I met at WPAFB

styling was all it took to immediately order a new convertible (only 271 Corvettes with factory air built that year) Bob and Carole were dating then, and on one date Carole remarked that Bob was the only guy she ever dated who never let her drive his car Bob's silence ended that conversation, at least until they married in May 1965

Corvette Seatbelts 1956-1976

1976 was the first year a 3-point anchoring system was used on all Corvettes The shoulder and lap belts shared a common D-ring, which slipped into a single buckle The belts were anchored on the floor and deck of the outboard side, and on the floor of the inboard side of the floor Manufacturers
